the REFERENCES

What is referencing?

Referencing is a standardized system used in the academic communities to acknowledge the sources of information and ideas, theories, quotes, facts and any other evidence and information used to support their research or assignments.

Why referencing is important?

- to Avoid Plagiarism by making it clear which ideas are your own and which are someone else's
- gives Supporting Evidence for the Ideas, Arguments, Analysis and Opinions
- Showing the readers the Sources of Information
- allows readers to Identify, Follow-up, and Verify the Sources that author has used

Citation and Reference

- A list of sources author have cited in the text arranged in the order within the article is called citations or in-text citations.
- The references at the end of the article is called the reference list.

In recent years, there has been a growing discussion among researchers and dance artists regarding the beneficial effects of Argentine Tango (AT) as a music-based movement therapy for individuals with PD [13, 14]. AT may lead to an improvement in spatial cognition because individuals may learn spatial postures and simple paths during the dance classes, and these must be stored, remembered and used again [15].

NHCOA Testifies at Older Americans Act Congressional Hearing

Posted on October 6, 2016 by NHCOA Media

Washington, DC— This morning Dr. Yanira Cruz, President and CEO of the National Hispanic Council on Aging, a national organization working to improve the lives of Hispanic older adults, their families, and caregivers, advocates and experts before the Subcommittee on Higher Education and Workforce Training regarding reauthorization of the Older Americans Act (OAA). As the U.S. aging population increases and becomes a key piece of legislation for all older Americans, including diverse seniors. Dr. Cruz's recorded testimony is

"Thank you Chairman Foxx, Ranking Member Hinojosa, and Members of the House of Representatives' Subcommittee on Higher Education and Workforce Training, for the opportunity to testify at this hearing. It is an honor to be here and to discuss the need to reauthorize the Older Americans Act (OAA).

"I am president and CEO of the National Hispanic Council on Aging (NHCOA), the leading national orga
